

The Center for Evidence-Based Crime Policy and the Harry F. Guggenheim Foundation present a

Congressional Briefing on Criminal Justice in the United States Lessons from the Past, Prospects for a New Crime Commission

Tuesday, April 24, 2018 | 10:00am - 12:15pm

Dirksen Senate Office Building, Room 106, Washington DC

- 10:00 - 10:05 CYNTHIA LUM, Center for Evidence-Based Crime Policy, George Mason University—Opening Remarks
- 10:06 - 10:14 ALFRED BLUMSTEIN, Carnegie Mellon University— Science and Technology
- 10:16 - 10:24 JODI LANE, University of Florida—Juvenile Justice
- 10:26 - 10:34 CASSIA SPOHN, Arizona State University—Prosecution
- 10:36 - 10:44 WESLEY SKOGAN, Northwestern University—Policing
- 10:46 - 10:54 DORIS MACKENZIE, Penn State University—Corrections
- 10:56 - 11:04 ROBERT CRUTCHFIELD, University of Washington—
Race, Crime and Criminal Justice
- 11:04 - 11:10 BREAK/CLARIFICATIONS
- 11:10 - 11:18 BRYCE PARDO, University of Maryland—Narcotics and Drug Abuse
- 11:20 - 11:28 LAWRENCE SHERMAN, University of Maryland and University of Cambridge—Domestic Violence (Policing)
- 11:30 - 11:38 JOANNE BELKNAP, University of Colorado at Boulder—Domestic Violence
(Non-Policing)
- 11:40 - 11:48 PAUL WORMELI, IJIS Institute—Criminal Justice Statistics
- 11:50 - 11:58 TED GEST, Criminal Justice Journalists—
Prospects for a New Crime Commission
- 12 noon SENATOR GARY C. PETERS, U.S. Senator for Michigan—Closing Remarks